

HERO Turns the Lights on for Haitian Children with

“LIBRARY-IN-A-BOX”

HERO believes that education can provide the basic foundation for Haitian children to build a better future for themselves and for their country. It is through education, they will be the strongest bridge to the future for themselves and for their families.

Today, there are hundreds of thousands of Haitian children who live without the basics for human life and are in need of help. HERO has built schools, medical facilities and water systems. To strengthen these efforts, HERO would like to further provide the basic educational need - books - for Haitian children.

“Library-In-A-Box” is planned to be distributed to Haitian children as the schools are built and opened, and also for orphanages around Haiti. This box will provide the “light” to direct these children to a better future.

However, we can not do it alone. We need donors to fund these books for the children in the schools and orphanages in Haiti. Please consider a $300 donation to allow us to place one in a school. The library will include the box and 50 children’s books in both French and Creole.
